PRESENTER:

Carolyn Cumpsty Fowler, PhD, MPH

is an Assistant Professor, Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, with a joint appointment in the Johns Hopkins School of Nursing. She is Chair, Baltimore County Child Death Review Team and Vice-Chair, Maryland Child Death Review State Team. Dr. Fowler, a nurse epidemiologist, has more than 20 years of clinical, research, teaching and practice experience in public health and injury prevention.

In this session, training participants will learn:

- The importance of strategic program planning,
- To apply a 10-step best process model to guide program development from problem assessment through planning for sustainability, and
- Why the integration of evaluation throughout the lifespan of the program improves program
